

Deborah Bathke

Assistant Professor, Climatologist, Plant & Environmental Sciences, New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003

Office: 646-6327

Email: djbathke@nmsu.edu

Education

2004 Ph.D. Atmospheric Sciences, The Ohio State University
1998 M.S. Geosciences, University of Nebraska-Lincoln
1995 B.S. Meteorology, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Professional Experience

2005-Present Assistant State Climatologist/Assistant College Professor, Department of Plant and Environmental Sciences, New Mexico State University
2005 Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (Air Quality) Program Specialist
1999-2003 Graduate Research Fellow, Byrd Polar Research Center, The Ohio State University, Graduate Research Fellow

Primary Research Interests

Climate outreach and services; climate variability and drought; paleoclimatology; climate change

Professional Activities and Honors (last 6 years)

2005-Present Chair, New Mexico Governor's Drought Task Force Drought Monitoring Workgroup
2005-Present State coordinator, New Mexico Community Collaborative Rain, Hail, and Snow Network
Present American Association of State Climatologists
American Geophysical Union
American Meteorological Society
Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society
Gamma Sigma Delta Honor Society
New Mexico Floodplain Managers Association
1999-2003 NASA Earth System Science Fellowship Recipient